The House then at 12:10 p. m. ad-

JUDGE BROWN'S CONFIRMATION.

An Experienced Senator's Comments of the Case. A member of the Senate Judiciary Com-mittee to-day said that he did not as yet see any reason why the nomination of Judge Brown to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court should not be con the Supreme Court should not be confirmed.

"But it is rather early yet," he continued. "You see we have in our committee very important nominations to handle.
We sometimes think that there is nothing that can be possibly said against a nominee, when all of a sudden charges to the right of him and charges to the left of him are sprung upon the committee. The nomination of Justice brewer was a point in confirmation. We were ready to report favorably upon it when along came charges brought by the temperance people. I suppose as a matter of course that there will be charges against Judge
Brown."

Brown."
Tim Carric reporter suggested that it was already asserted that Judge Brown had killed his man.
"Is that the fact?" was the answer interrogative. "Then I suppose that we may say that the thing has already commenced. But the Judiciary Committee is used to such things. But really this charge of manslaughter against Judge Brown is, even in my experience of Judiciary Committee work, a little bit early."

A GOOD MAIL.

John Allen Accepts Judge Lamar's View of It. The Honorable John Allen of Mississippi was at his deak in the House to-day looking over his mail when a CRITIC man approached. Mr. Allen handled his mail approached. Mr. Allen handled his mail picking it up and dropping it down piecemeal on his desk.

"That is a good mail," he said, "the e are so few letters in it. Letters, you know, require answers. The absence of letters makes a good Congressional mail. I learned that before I became a Congressman. I was and am yet a great admirer of Justice Lamar. When the latter was in Congress I used frequently to write to him, telling him of my admiration for him and of my aspirations, and asking for his advice. Once I came to Washing ton this was some years before I was elected to Congress) and, of course, came up to the Capitol. It was before the Sonatemet. Mr. Lamar was a member of the body. I sat in the seat next to him as he examined his mail. There were very few letters in that mail. It is a good mail, said he. This made me feel a little bit bad, as I thought of the number of letters that I had written to Mr. Lamar. But I then found out what in the eyes of members of the House and Senate a good mail consists of. And Congressional experience has convinced me that Mr. Lamar's conception of a good mail was the correct one." ception of a good mail was the correct

THE ELECTIONS BILL.

Senator Pugh Fears It Will Pass to

Senator Pegh Fears It Will Pass in Spite of Oppssition.

The general newspaper impression, and for that reason largely the general public impression, is that the Elections bill cannot get through the Senate. Southern Democratic Senators who are per as the people most interested in the measure, as it now is, think otherwise. They have satisfied themselves that the Republican members of the Senate intend to put the bill through. The Aldrich resolution means this, they say, and nothing else. They are prepared to light to the best of their ability, but recognize that they will not have a large field in fight it. Senator Pugh of Alabama to-day gave Tim Curru reporter the main points upon which this creed is based, "and I further believe," he continued, "that the bill will go through the House, All they want over there is a not have a large field to fight it. Senator Pugh of Alabama to-day gave Time Chrice reporter the main points upon which this creed is based, "and I further believe." he continued, "that the bill will go through the House. All they want over there is a quorum of their own members and I think that it has been demonstrated that they can get such a quorum."

This exposition of the situation by Mr. Pugh is in exact keeping with what Representative Crisp of Georgia said some time ago to a Carrie reporter, which was printed at the time. The two publications certainly make up food for speculation about the fate of the bill.

A WAR-TIME REMINDER.

the bill introduced (by request) in the House to-day by Mr. Sayres of Texas for the relief of J. B. McFarland, the heirs of E. B. Turner, A. G. Buddington, and S. B. Reid, McFarland was indge, Turner prosecuting attorney, Buddington clerk, and Reid marshal of a provisional court having jurisdiction over the entire State of Texas from December II, 1863, to June II, 1865. The bill calls for $20,000. The sums claimed to be due the individual members of the court are as follows: Judge, $2,916,605; prosecuting attorney $1,826,005; clerk and marshal, each $1,400. Interest is asked on these sums from December II, 1863, until paid. for the relief of J. B. McFarland, the cierk and marshal, ench $1,400. Interest is asked on these sums from December II. 1893, until paid.

This court was appointed, says the memorial accompanying the bill, by Andrew J. Hamilton, who had been appointed military Governor of Texas by Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War. The court sat at Brownsville, Texas, while that place was held by the Union troops, and when they abandoned the town the court likewise "moved on," but the officers of the court, says the memorial, "held themselves in readiness at all times up to the 11th day of June, 1866, that being about the time that A. J. Hamilton resigned as military Governor and was appointed Provisional Governor of Texas, to discharge their duties as officers of such Provisional Court whenever one could be organized at any point in the State under the control of the United States."

Governor Hamilton wrote to President Johnson on January 18, 1896, asking that these court officers be paid, but they never were. They will be in great lack if they ever get the money due for their wartime services.

FOR HORIZONTAL WILLIAM.

A Texas Congressman Comes Out for the Great Tariff Reformer. Hon. Joseph D. Sayres is one of the brightest men the Lone Star State has sent to Congress since the war. He is now serving his third term. He is a member of the Appropriations Committee, is a care-ful student of economic questions, and is an all around practical statesman. "There's plenty of good Presidential timber in the Democratic party," said Mr. Sayres to a Curric reporter, "and its all stuff to say fifteen or sixteen months before the nom-nating convention is called that any man has a sure thing on the nomination. You has a sure thing on the nomination. You will find when the time comes that several good men will be contesting for the honor of heading the Democratic ticket."

"Who, in your opinion, is the strongest man?"

"Who, in your opinion, is the strongest man?"

"William R. Morrison, I believe, is the man who could win without the least particle of trouble. He would not only carry all the Democratic States—and I mean by that, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Indiana and the South—but he would also sweep Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan. He is a Democrat of the Hickory kind, the ploneer in tariff reform and as houest a man as ever lived.

Indian Wars and their Cost.
A printed copy of the memorial of the representatives of the Religious Society of Friends of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, officially signed, for the just and humane treatment of the Indians, has been presented to the Senate by Mr. Paddock. Resides what was quoted from it in The Curric on Tuesday the following significant paragraphs are worthy of notice:

Statistics have been published in the daily press which show that the expenses of this Government since its formation in 1776 to 1886, a period of 110 years, on account of Indians, have been upward of 8029,000,000, and that of this sum 8495,000,000 have been expended by the War Department in wars with them and expenses incident thereto. Of this enormous aggregate over $230,000,000 are stated to have been expended in hostilities with differentibles during the ten years from 1872 to 1881, the primary cause of which, in accordance with the testimony before addenced, has been the rapacity and injustice

"That a course of justice and kindness to ward this people would be preductive of lesting peace, is illustrated by the early bistory of the Province of Pennsylvania, in which friendly relations were established by such a course between the white settlers and the Indians and maintained for apward of seventy years without the existence of a military force."

Pan-American Transportation Company Messrs. F. L. Dana of Denver, Howell Jones of Topeka, J. B. Clarke of Chicago and A. P. Chamberlain of Des Moines ap and A. P. Chamberlain of Des Moines appeared before the Senate Committee on Commerce to-slay as a sub-committee appointed by the Interstate Deep-Water Harber Committee, and made argument in favor of the bill recently introduced by Senator Cullom to incorporate the Pan-American Transportation Company. They stated that they were backed by 15,000,000 people and were appointed to look after the welfare of the West before Congress, and especially to secure an appropriation from Congress to build one deep-water harbor at least on the Texas coast of the Gulf. No action was taken by the committee.

Record and Pension Office. Mr. Cutcheon to-day reported back to the House from the Military Committee nis bill to establish the Record and Pension Office of the War Department favorably and without amendments.

Capitol Notes.

Ex-Sixth Auditor J. M. McGrew, now practicing law in this city, has written Senator Mitchell favoring the purchase by the Government of certain Confederate records now in possession of private per-sons, on the ground that they would pre-vent the payment of claims for carrying the United States mails, which were one paid by the Confederate Government. Mr. Hoar wants a new edition of the Senate election cases and has introduced a resolution in the Senate providing for the same.

More Silver Dollars Means More Store-room. Mr. Dan Leach, director of the mint was to-day asked what the Treasury Department would do with all of the silver, in case the Financial bill, as outlined by the Senate Caucus Committee, should be-come a law. His reply was:

"We would immediately have to look around for places in which to store the silver dollars coined under the bill. Even now we are somewhat cramped as to room. The inevitable would, of course, lave to come. We would be compelled to ask an appropriation, and a good-sized ne, too, to be used in building store-louses in which to put the silver dollars."

Quite a Coincidence The coincidence of two Justice Bing hams presiding over two famous murde hams presiding over two famous murder trials which were ended at nearly the same time was commented upon at the City Hall to-day. Justice Bingham, one of the judges who presided at the trial of Isaac Sawtelle, which was concluded yesterday at Dover, N. H., is a brother of Chief Justice Bingham who sat in the Criminal Court during the trial of Frank K. Ward. The New Hampshire justice, whose name is George A. Bingham, bears a remarkable personal likeness to his brother, Edward A. Bingham, the Chief Justice of the District Supreme Court,

Christmas Day Arrests.
There were 190 arrests made in the city yesterday divided among the different precincts as follows: First, 33; Second, 18; precincts as follows: F17st, 35; Second, 18; Third, 25; Fourth, 25; Fifth, 16; Sixth, 12; Seventh, 18, Eighth, 32; Nintb, 7. The most of the cases were for drunkenness, disorderly conduct and other trivial of-fenses. In the Police Court this morning Judge Miller was lenient toward the most of them on account of it having been Christmas, but a few of them had to pay fines.

The Churches Well Filled-Christmas Dianers to the lumates of Hospitals, Jall and Asylums-Arrangements to Feed the Little Ones To-Morrow,

The weather yesterday morning as airticipated by the Signal Service reports was not such as to give promise to an outside day of enjoyment, and later on there was an old-fashioned fall of snow.

At the White House the family grow was made up of the President and Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. McKee and the babies Harrison, Mrs. McKee and the babies and the venerable father of the first lady of the inner to Mrs. MeKee from friends at home and abroad and displayed in the library were numerous and of great value. The President's gifts to his wife and daughter were diamond ornaments. Baby McKee presented each employe with a large silk handkerchief. One of his own presents, with which he was the most delighted, was a tricycle. The 7 o'clock dinner was served in the private dining room at which Private Secretary Halford joined the family.

The day was observed by Vice President Morton and family, the members of the Cabinet and families, and the Attorney General as heretofore reported in This Carrie.

THE CEPTIC.

Chrildren Made Happy. The little ones at the Christmas Hos-pital had a plentiful Christmas dinner pital had a plentiful Christmas dimer and one of the most beautiful of Christmas trees to gladden their hearts. The tree was a thing of beauty. The toys and other decorations upon it were arranged by Mrs. Frank II. Magnire and Miss Schemek. After dinner each child was given a box of candy, an orange and a saucer of ice-cream, and also many presents, consisting of tool chests, work boxes, dolls, guns, soldier trappings, mechanical toys, etc. There was singing by the children, two of the best of them giving "Nanki Poo" and "Billy Bumps." There are at present sixty-two inmates of the hospital. Among the ladies present vesterday and who assisted in the distribution of boys were Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Magnire, Mrs. Niles, Mrs. W. T. Harris, Miss Schenck, the Misses Henry, Miss Rucker, with the two younger daughters of Mrs. Sheridan, Phil. Sheridan, jr., Mrs. Nicholas Anderson and Miss Anderson.

The Day at the Industrial School. Christmas at the Industrial Home School was a great day for the children and their friends. The room was decoand their friends. The room was decorated with evergreens, potted plants and drawings by the scholars. A number of solos and choruses were sung and recitations, dialogues and declamations were given, all of which elicited applause. Mr. Charles Gurley assumed the role of Santa Claus and from a very large box distributed many presents to the children. It was indeed to them a merry Christmas. After this the company went to another schoolroom where they were treated to a kitchen garden entertainment. Twelve girls with white aprons and caps went through various kinds of house work singling songs while doing so. The Christmas dinner took place at noon and it is needless to say that it was the feature of the day. Among those present were Mrs. C. H. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Gurley, Mr. B. T. Janney, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Fisher, the Misses Alvion Wilson, M. M. Donovan, Nellie Moote, Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. and Miss Blackford.

Christmas at the Reform School. The inmates of the Reform School spent Christmas in a very enjoyable manner, The day's sport was entered upon with a game of baseball, and it was continued until the dinner gorg sounded. Two hun-dred active and healthy boys sat down to the bounteous Christmas dinner prepared under the direction of Matron Shallen-berger. The out-door sports were resumed after dinner and continued until the fast-falling snow put an end to them. Infalling snow put an end to them. In-doors a Christmas tree loaded with hand-some gifts was prepared for the entertain-ment of the smaller boys. According to his usual custom President Falls of the board of directors was present to see the boys eat their Christmas dinner.

The Newsboys' Home, on Twelfth street northwest, was the scene of much enjoyment yesterday, as far as the Christas dinner was concerned but the rea mas dinner was concerned, but the real Christmas entertainment for the newsboys will be given at the Home on next Tucsday evening. There will be a mammoth Christmas tree laden with presents for about 175 boys. Before the distribution of presents there will be a supper. The various members of the Newsboys and Children's Ald Society, including many ladies, will be present. The festivities will begin at 7 o'clock.

The Orphaus Not Forgotten. The boys at St. Joseph's Orphau Asylum, numbering 110, had a delightful Asymm, numbering 110, had a delightful time in the enjoyment of their Christmas dinner. The Christmas dinner is paid for every year principally from a fund be-queathed by Mr. W. W. Corcoran, but aside from this there were many other liberal contributions from leading citizens. Mrs. James F. Barbour sent a large load of presents, including all sorts of toys, books, wagons, candy, etc.

Christmas for the Little Ones The Christmas entertainment Wednes lay evening of the Pensoara Free Kindergarten, in the lecture-room of All Souls' Church, was one of the most pleasant of Christmas events. The programme was delightfully rendered and the exercises closed with the appearance of a tiny Santa Claus, with gifts for the pupils of the Free Kindergarten and cards for the pupils of the National Kindergarten.

Veterans' Charitable Work.

The poor members, needy widows and orphans of W. S. Hancock Command, No. 1, U. V. U., to the number of seventy-five families, were furnished yesterday by the command with a Christmas dinner, fuel and clothing. Any further contributions may be sent to the hall, Seventh and L. streets northwest.

At St. Ann's Asylum. The children at St. Ann's Asylum were, to use the familiar words of a song, "As happy as the day is long." In each of the play rooms, one for the babies and the other for the older children, Christmas trees had been placed with their wealth of decorations and presents.

CHRISTMAS CLUB DINNER.

The Poor Children Will Have a Feast

CHRISTMAS CAROLS.

Impressive Musical Services Held in Many Churches.

The celebration of Christmas in the churches was very generally observed, and the services were such as have been held for years past, the greatestatication before rad in the arrest collection.

and the services were such as have been held for years past, the greatest attention being paid to the music, which was of a very high order.

The Catholic churches celebrated mass at 5 o'clock in the morning and high mass at 11 o'clock. St. Matthew's was heautifully decorated, the sanctuary having a background of evergreens, smilax and flowers, while the altar was made as beautiful as possible. The pastor, Dr. Chappelle, conducted services at 5, 830 and 0 o'clock, and high mass was celebrated at 11 o'clock by flev. E. A. Williams, with Dr. Chappelle as deacon and flev. Kervick as sub-decaon. The choir was under the direction of Mr. L. E. Gannon.

The services at St. Patrick's were beautifully impressive, and the church was filled. Father Medice celebrated solemn high mass at 11 o'clock, with Father Walter, deacon, and Father Delany, sub-decaon. The sermon was delivered by Father Richards. The music was under the leadership of Professor Maina.

The services at the Church of the Immaculate Conception were held at the same heurs as in the other churches and were of an impressive mature.

At St. Aloysius' Church the same programme was carried out. The orchestra was under the leadership of Professor Bernays.

High mass was celebrated at the Soldier's Home at 8:30 by Father Duskin.

Five o'clock mass was sung at St. Augustine by Father Forhau, who also preached. There was low mass at 6, 6:30 and 10 o'clock.

Father Graeb preached at both the ligh masses at 8t. Mary's. All the other Catholic churches held services and the attendance was much larger than fat before for years.

Dr. Elliott preached at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension at 11 o'clock.

tendance was much larger than has been for years.

Dr. Elliott preached at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension at 11 o'clock, and there was not a vacant seat. The music was superb.

All the Episcopal, Baptist, Methodist, Lutheran and Universalist churches held services, special programmes of music being arranged.

AGAINST RETAIL DEALERS.

They Cannot Sell in Quantities of More Than it Pint.

The vexed question as to whether there is any law to prevent a person having a license to keep a barroom to sell liquor in quantities greater than a pint under the license held, was answered in the affirmative in an opinion forwarded to the Commissioners to-day by Attorney Hazleton. "The law regulating the liquor traffic," says he, "is very specific, " " It appears that two classes of liquor dealers are recognized by the law, viz.; wholesale dealers and retail dealers. The former pays a license of not less than $25 annually and the latter a license of $100 annually. It follows, I think that a man licensed as a wholesale dealer only earnot do a barroom business, because it is a business he is not authorized to engage in under his license. It is equally true that a man licensed to keep a barroom, which authorizes him to sell liquor in less quantities than a pint, cannot sell it in greater quantities than a pint—that is, in packages containing more than a pint—without being regarded by license to keep a barroom to sell liquo not sell it in greater quantities than a pint—that is, in packages containing more than a pint—without being regarded by the law a wholesale dealer. In other words, the right to sell liquor in less quantities than a pint does not include the right to sell it in greater quantities than a pint. I am, therefore, of the opinion that the license law itself prevents a person having a barroom license only from selling liquor in greater quantities than a pint. When the proprietor of a barroom sells liquor in greater quantities than a pint he is liable to prospectution for doing business as a wholesale dealer without a license."

This opinion is regarded as important considered in the light of the present liquor agitation, and a tightening of the strings may follow.

It was an admirable copy of an old Venewas anike novel and exquisite in design. It was an admirable copy of an old Venetian portrait, and in richness of material, glimmer of gems and silver, a faithful reproduction of the most pictures ue period of Italian dress. The bodice was made high at the throat, with a rolling Venetian collar of silver curiched with gems elaborately trimmed with slashes of crepe de chine and finest point d'alguille. The very long sleeves were slashed at the shoulder and elbow with crepe de chine richly embroidered with brilliants, pearls and silver, terminating in a pointed cuff which fell over the hand. The skirt and demi-train of satin were trimmed with beautiful flounces of old family point lace, alternated with nanels embroidered in an emblematic design of orange blossoms and illies of the valley. From the shoulder fell a full court train of finest velvet, partly covered with an embroidered vino in brilliants, pearls and silver of orange blossoms and illies of the valley, caught up by Renaissance bows and finished with a deep border of softest white fox fur. The bride wore a diamond fleur-de-lys tiara, a gift of her grandmother, Mme, de Zerega; a diamond crescent, a gift of the bridegroom, and a beautiful diamond ornament, the gift of Mrs, del Monte. She carried a silver prayer book.

Silence With Soup.

From the Courier-Journal There are some dinner rules in high fashion we may not all know. For instance, fashion we may not all know. For instance, in the new novel, "Aristocracy," this passage occurs: "'I dare say you find England very different from America, Mr. Allen," Lady Oaktorrington (pronounced ottor) says after the removal of the soup, during which course not a word had been spoken at table." And how it is in France one may gather from Guy de Maupassant's novel, "Belami," in which this occurs: "The servant announced, "Madame is served." Then they adjourned to the dining-room, Duray found himself seated between Madame de Marelle and her daughter. " 9 No one spoke while cating the soup." This looks like design, it seems from these extracts to be the rule of highy-cultured nations that no one shall speak while he is cating soup, and, considering the modern mustache, it may be a very appropriate police regulation. But we must not too quickly jump at conclusions. We all know that sometimes at American dinner parties, in the matter of early conversation, one finds himself, as it were, silently in "the soup."

N. Y. Star "Man About Town." At noon Wednesday, while L-was in the shop of a Broadway florist, Lillian Russell entered. She wore a gossamer and self-entered. She wore a gossamer and was in a damp and dismal state of mind.
She said something about the weather, bought a large bunch of fragrant pink roses and then allowed the clerk to escort her to her coupe. On his return he said:
"Actresses spend a lot of money for flowers. There is Miss Russell. You would think that the floral offerings of her admirers would satisfy her; but they don't.

A PUGILIST ARRAIGNED.

Fielden Pleads Not Guilty and Gives Bail.

Gloves Here for a bunch of pink roses, and there's a pretty how-de-do if, by any possible chance, we are unable to fill her order. chance, we are unable to fill her order. Fanny Davenport is partial to red roses, and Carmeneita dotes on hyacinths. Little Miss Tempest generally buys yellow rose buds and asks a great many questions about orchids. Ada Rehan asks for Parma violets, and insists on their being fresh and fragrant. Sadie Martinot is an old customer, but I do not know that she has any particular favorite. Otero is passionately fond of any flower as long as the perfume is agreeable and the color yellow or a kindred shade."
